Project Assessment - Analyse du projet

The Victims Fund is designed to give victims a more effective voice in the federal justice and corrections systems. The financial assistance will support the achievement of these priorities and objectives and will benefit Canadians.

A review committee has received and assessed the merits of this project. The Review Committee supports this project as it supports the objectives of the Victims Fund and the Federal Victims Strategy. Based on the Project Risk Assessment Tool, the overall level of risk is considered to be low. The project is not considered to be complex in nature and the recipient is experienced. The project budget has been reviewed by program and financial officers to ensure that it reflects only the costs necessary to successfully deliver the project.

Recommendation Justification - Justification de la recommandation

The assessment has revealed that the project will further the Victims Fund's results. The project activities are deemed to be realistic given the scope of the event/activities and the fact that the applicant has demonstrated the capacity to complete the activities.

RE: Funding request to support Sheldon Kennedy Child Advocacy Centre

Dear Andrée Gagné,

Thank you very much for the recent invitation to request funding to support the ongoing development and continued work of Child Advocacy Centres. This proposal outlines two priority areas:

1. Advance the Sheldon Kennedy Child Advocacy Centre's child-focused setting
2. Establish the role of Child Advocacy Centres within the Alberta Child Intervention Delivery System.

1. Advance the Sheldon Kennedy Child Advocacy Centre's child-focused setting

The SKCAC is committed to ongoing improvement in providing the highest quality service provision to decrease system induced trauma among children and families impacted by child abuse. In alignment with this objective, and with the National Children's Alliance (NCA) Standards for Accreditation as well as the work at the National level re: Canadian standards, the SKCAC is advancing its child-focused setting by:

- a) Redesigning forensic interview suites
- b) Providing the comfort of a Facility dog during child abuse medical examinations, forensic interviews and court.

a) Redesigning forensic interview suites

The 2017 edition of the National Children's Alliance Standards for Accredited Members states that a CAC require a 'separate, child-focus setting designated to provide a safe, comfortable and neutral place' where forensic interviews and other CAC services can be appropriately provided for children and families. This standard is also reflected in the Canadian standards for Child Advocacy Centres. The SKCAC completed a review of the literature and other similar programs, in partnership with the University of the Fraser Valley to investigate the best practices for the physical set-up of a forensic interview room. Recommendations include the incorporation of soothing paint colours and materials, soft lighting, inviting décor, and ensuring ease of transition between spaces. Through re-designing the space, it is anticipated system induced trauma and anxiety related to the investigation process will be reduced for children impacted by child abuse. Over the next year, the SKCAC will conduct an evaluation of the impact of physical environment on forensic interviews, and to clarify the definitions of 'child-focused' and 'neutral' as they apply to space.

b) Providing the comfort of a Facility dog during child abuse medical examinations, forensic interviews and court

The SKCAC has partnered with Dogs with Wings to recruit, train and integrate the use of a trained Facility dog to support children and youth at the SKCAC. Dogs with Wings is a valued member of the international community of assistance dog schools, and is an accredited member of Assistance Dogs International, the International Guide Dog Federation and the Canadian Association of Guide and Assistance Dog Schools. Facility dogs that work in the legal and medical systems can provide a sense of calm, security and non-judgmental support during investigative and legal proceedings when the professionals have to respond to children in an impartial and reserved manner.

The facility dog will be teaming up with the SKCAC Child Life Specialist, to assist in creating a comforting and supportive environment for children and youth at the Centre. This will involve a trip to Edmonton from March 5th-10th to partake in 'team training' together prior to Webster's first day of work on March 13th. Webster will be supporting the work of the Centre and the Child Life Program to offer comfort and support to children and youth throughout the Child Space, and provide a non-threatening and calming presence during forensic interviews and medical examinations.

The proposed budget is as follows:

- $6,000 – furniture for interview suites
- $2,000 – painting interview suites
- $2,000 – interview suite décor such plants, lamps, wall decals, area rugs
- $3,000 – décor to assist transition from Child Space to interview suites
- $2,000 – start-up costs for facility dog
- $1,300 – Travel, accommodations and per diem for primary handler to attend training in Edmonton, Alberta

Total: $16,300

2. Establish the role of Child Advocacy Centres within the Alberta Child Intervention Delivery System.

Child Advocacy Centres (CACs) have emerged as a best practice model for the investigation and treatment of sexual abuse and severe physical abuse and neglect.

There has been significant dialogue at the provincial and national levels concerning the vision, role, responsibilities and functions of Child Advocacy Centres. The Sheldon Kennedy Child Advocacy Centre has commissioned a discussion paper to provide background information and context around some of the key factors influencing the development of CACs in Alberta, and promote further discussion about the future direction of CACs. The important role and functions of the not for profit designated legal entity that is at the core of Child Advocacy Centre operations will be explored, with a focus on the SKCAC. The emergence of a provincial integrated practice model recognizing CACs as an essential component of the Alberta child intervention service delivery continuum and the need for long term predictable funding for CACs is work that can be shared at the National levels.

The proposed budget is as follows:

- $13,700 – Contractor fees

Total: $13,700

Total Requested Budget:

$16,300 - Advance the Sheldon Kennedy Child Advocacy Centre's child-focused setting
$13,700 – Discussion Paper establishing Child Advocacy Centres as an integral component of the Child Intervention System

Total: $30,000

We are very appreciative of the ongoing support from the Department of Justice Canada, and the opportunity to request dollars for continuous improvement in providing exceptional services to children and youth impacted by trauma. If you have any further questions, please don't hesitate to contact me.

Sincerely,

Sheldon Kennedy Child Advocacy Centre

MEMORANDUM FOR THE MINISTER

Increase Funding to Sheldon Kennedy Child Advocacy Centre

ISSUE

Your approval is sought to increase funding to Sheldon Kennedy Child Advocacy Centre for "Forensic Interviewer," a discretionary project that meets the criteria under the Victims Fund.

BACKGROUND

The Victims Fund is designed to advance Departmental priorities in the area of victims of crime, identify emerging areas of concern and practice, and advance shared objectives with respect to victim issues with other levels of government and stakeholders, all with a view to giving victims a more effective voice in the criminal justice and federal corrections systems.

Interested organizations and provincial and territorial governments submit their funding proposals to the Department's Programs Branch for review and consideration. Departmental officials undertake a detailed review to ensure that the proposals meet program objectives and are linked to the mandate and the work of the Department.

CONSIDERATIONS

With the proposed increase in funding, Sheldon Kennedy Child Advocacy Centre will continue to support the implementation of the Forensic Assessment Model and build relations with First Nations communities within the Treaty 7 jurisdiction to integrate methods to deliver culturally responsive services for Indigenous children, youth and their families.

The anticipated increased budget is $90,000 in 2017-2018. The costs specified in the proposal reflect the minimum amount of funding required to deliver the project as proposed. Any reductions would change the nature of the project and would impact both delivery and results.

RECOMMENDATION

An increase in funding in the amount of $90,000 is being recommended for this project.

Should you approve, your signature is required on the Grants and Contributions Approval Document-Amendment (Annex 1) to commit the funds in accordance with section 32 of the Financial Administration Act, and on the letter to the recipient (Annex 2). A copy of their funding application is attached as Annex 3.

Dear [REDACTED]

I am pleased to formally advise you that the Department of Justice Canada will provide an increased contribution to Sheldon Kennedy Child Advocacy Centre from the Victims Fund for the project entitled "Forensic Interviewer." An increased contribution in the maximum amount of $90,000 will be provided for fiscal year 2017-2018. The total maximum contribution over three fiscal years is now established at $250,000.

This project will allow Sheldon Kennedy Child Advocacy Centre to continue to support the implementation of the Forensic Assessment Model and build relations with First Nations communities within the Treaty 7 jurisdiction to integrate methods to deliver culturally responsive services for Indigenous children, youth and their families.

Officials from the Department's Programs Branch will send to your attention a formal letter of offer related to this contribution.

Please do not make any public announcement of this funding prior to the final execution of the Agreement and consultation with Justice Canada.

I wish you every success with this project and look forward to learning the results of your work.

Respectfully,

RE: Funding extension request and funding request for Indigenous services

Dear Andrée Gagné,

Thank you very much for the recent invitation to request a funding extension to support the implementation of the Forensic Assessment Model, through the Forensic Interviewer position. We are also very grateful for the opportunity to request funding to enhance and integrate methods to deliver culturally responsive services for Indigenous children, youth and their families.

Funding Extension Request

Please consider this letter to be the Sheldon Kennedy Child Advocacy Centre's (SKCAC) formal request to extend the current funding agreement to the 2017/18 fiscal year (April 1, 2017 to March 31, 2018), for an additional $60,000 during this period.

This extension would support the continuing work of the Forensic Interviewer position, which was filled in January, 2017. The proposed budget is as follows:

- $57,000 – Salary, benefits and office space
- $3,000 - Review engagement fees (as required by the Federal Government)

The Forensic Interviewer position is an integral component of the Forensic Assessment Model at the Sheldon Kennedy Child Advocacy Centre. This position works in partnership with two Forensic Interviewers (part-time) designated by Child & Family Services Calgary Region. This team builds forensic interviewing capacity among partners at the SKCAC and throughout Southern Alberta, provides mentorship and training based on leading practices and conducts interviews upon request.

The SKCAC, working with the partner organizations has identified six goals that the Forensic Interviewers will move forward with over the next few years. They include the following:

sheldon kennedy
child advocacy centre

Box 5, Child Development Centre, 3820 - 24 Avenue NW, Calgary AB T3B 2X9
T: 403.428.5400 F: 403.428.5409 www.sheldongennedycac.ca Charitable Registration # 82679 3283 RR001

- Work with the RCMP in the areas of forensic interview training, support and capacity building;
- Provide consultation and support to members of the Calgary Police Service, the RCMP, Child and Family Services and Alberta Health Services for child abuse cases;
- Conduct forensic child abuse interviews for complex and severe cases at the SKCAC upon request;
- Provide outreach and support in rural and Aboriginal communities upon request;
- Deliver in-house training programs for SKCAC staff, decreasing the need to bring in external training professionals; and
- Implement a peer review process for CPS and RCMP members to enhance forensic interviewing skills and abilities.

The Forensic Interviewer is a core member of the Centre, who will be integral in implementing the Forensic Assessment Model at the SKCAC. Services provided by the Forensic Interviewers include:

- Conduct forensic interviews,
- Translate the latest research in forensic interviewing to CPS and RCMP members,
- Deliver specialized training in advanced forensic interview practices for CPS and RCMP members,
- Deliver follow up feedback, peer review, and supervision of forensic interviews,
- Consult, when needed, on files for CPS and RCMP members, and
- Develop outcome measurement and research in forensic interviewing.

Outcomes expected to be achieved through these innovative positions include:

- Improved skills and abilities in forensic interviewing practices;
- Improved reliability in victim accounts leading to a more likely successful prosecution of offenders;
- Implementation of innovative, scientific, evidence-based forensic interview practices; and
- Increased skill level confidence for Forensic Interviewers, RCMP and Police conducting interviews.

We are very appreciative of the opportunity to request an extension of the existing funding for the Forensic Interviewer position, and the ongoing support from the Department of Justice. If you have any further questions, please don't hesitate to contact me.

Funding Request for Indigenous Services

The Sheldon Kennedy Child Advocacy Centre is committed to ensuring that every child who resides in the surrounding communities extending into Southern Alberta, receive specialized and collaborative services in dealing with complex, severe cases of child abuse. There continues to be an over-representation of Aboriginal and First Nations children in the child protection system. The 2003 Canadian Incidence Study of Reported Child Abuse and Neglect reported that Aboriginal children were 2.5 times as likely to have a 'substantiated' report of maltreatment. Research also indicates that 25% to 50% of Aboriginal adults were sexually assaulted before the age of eighteen (Collin-Vezina, 2009). Treaty 7 is comprised of the bands of the Blackfoot, Tsuu T'ina, Piikani, Siksika, Blood and Stoney nations. Based on the development of trusting relationships, the SKCAC has the opportunity to support rural and Aboriginal communities in building capacity to provide specialized and multi-sector approaches to child abuse, ensuring that children across Southern Alberta have access equitable services.

Over the last year:

- The Centre and the TsuuT'ina Nation signed a Memorandum of Understanding to formally begin the process of developing an operational partnership. This will ensure that children impacted by child abuse on TsuuT'ina have equitable access to streamlined, integrated and specialized services;
- The SKCAC is currently partnering with Child & Family Services to develop working agreements with the 4 other First Nations' Bands that will outline the partnership between the SKCAC and each Band in supporting complex cases, providing training and receiving cultural training from the First Nations' communities to ensure understanding and the building of a strong working relationship with each First Nations' community;
- Elders and band representatives from all five Bands have toured the Centre and participated in conversations and building trusting relationships; and
- The Centre and the Bands are currently working together to develop operational agreements that will support Aboriginal children and families in the Treaty 7 region.

The SKCAC is continuing to focus on strong practice and will also partner with First Nations, the RCMP and rural communities to develop and support capacity in responding to child abuse cases. There is a strong commitment from the SKCAC, Calgary Region Child and Family Services, Southern Alberta Region Child and Family Services, and the RCMP to partner with Treaty 7 in developing a supportive and integrated approach to child abuse services.

We are requesting funding from the Department of Justice Canada to contract an Aboriginal Liaison to continue to build relations with the First Nations communities within the Treaty 7 jurisdiction. This liaison will continue to build relationships with the First Nations Bands in Treaty 7 and together, will develop a Strategic Plan which includes continued completion of partnership agreements with the four other First Nations, providing training to build capacity in dealing with complex child abuse cases and learning from the First Nations in how best to provide culturally sensitive services for Indigenous Children.

The proposed budget is as follows:

$30,000 – Contractor fees (includes expenses related to travel, engagement, gifts as per Indigenous protocols)
